State Pride—Assaulting State Honor.

These are the terms in which the Republican papers denounce those who, suspecting that there might be "something rotten in Denmark," asked certain questions of Ossawatomie Brown, in order to detect it.

What do these precious fellows now think of it, when Giddings, Chase, Brown and his sons, Kagi, Langston, (a colored Republican orator of baleful import and execrable memory,) Stephen, Lacy and a host of other abolitionists and republicans, are implicated?

Every day shows now that the infamous and atrocious conspiracy had been fostered and cherished within our own State. Even Dayton furnished one of the negroes, Cope land, though he graduated at Oberlin after his residence here. The facts in the case, too, show conclusively the connection between the chief conspirators and the "Oberlin Rescues Convention" in Cleveland last May.

In view of all these facts, it is time for the sober minded and patriotic citizens of Ohio to pause and consider where we are drifting; and this the more especially as the State Journal, Chase's peculiar organ, now openly defends the insurrection, proclaiming that the South is responsible for, and provoked it. Hear it:

"We have but little zeal to demand vengeance on Brown while these monsters (Democratic Senators) live and control the government." And again: "The fugitive slave law is itself nothing but an organized invasion, just as much in violation of all legal and constitutional principles as Brown's, and more; for Brown had the inherent right of every man to be free, as a starting point. Every seizure under the forms of the law is nothing but an insurrection against all legal rights!"

These revolutionary sentiments of the "Captain Cook" of the State Journal, are but the echo of the sentiments of the Captain Cook of Harper's Ferry.

The Cincinnati papers of Saturday stated that the type and a portion of the fixtures in the office of the Free South at Newport, Ky., were destroyed on Friday night last. A party of about 20 men, it is said, entered the office, and stated to the proprietor, Mr. Bailey, their purpose. This demonstration was made on account of the violent anti-slavery course of the paper. We are sorry to hear of such acts; they are indefensible almost always, and in the case of the South, there was not a shadow of cause why the office should be demolished. Bailey is a man of no influence whatever, for good or evil, outside of a little clique of rabid abolitionists, who are themselves powerless for evil. The quality styled ability, which he exhibited through a whole year, would not if employed upon a respectable daily paper, invest it with ordinary interest for even one week. The course pursued by the people of Newport was not only wrong, but is calculated to give the man a importance he does not deserve; and, instead of "bettering things," will only make them worse. Bailey's paper was a nuisance, but was one of that kind which is made annoying just in proportion as it is stirred up. The people have now put the poor, miserable devil in a condition to get the sympathy of thousands who, while they detest his incendiary teaching and ribald slang, favor under all circumstances, the freedom of speech and the press, rightly judging that error will effect little mischief, while truth is left free to combat it.

Baily is now a martyr—a very bad style of one, it is true, but he is a martyr, nevertheless. We trust the people of Newport will feel properly ashamed of themselves for giving the creature a prominence which, had he been left alone, he could not have attained in a lifetime.
